

Welcome to GreenICT

Unless you have had your head stuck in a hole, you will have heard a lot of discussion about the environment, greenhouse gases, carbon footprints and becoming greener. Subjects like green power, hybrid cars and water management have been at the forefront of peoples minds for quite some time now.

What about green technology? The US are looking at green technology with a serious attitude and we believe Australia should follow suit sooner rather than later.

GreenICT is designed to:

- provide businesses and consumers with up-to-date information regarding the ICT industry's environmental improvements
- showcase and promote Australian businesses who have taken on the 'Green Ethos'
- build awareness of the environmental impact ICT products can cause
- provide up-to-date information on upcoming Green Expos and Events

We certainly hope you find this resource beneficial in your steps towards a greener workplace and we welcome any comments and constructive criticism.
